Herbert E. Gray, Selector General of Canada, to sign the said Treaty. (October 18, 1994)	Prerogative
INDUSTRY &amp; SCIENCE
*1717	Weights and Measures Regulations, amendments to revoke the requirements for a mandatory annual inspection of weigh scales used in grain elevators licensed under the Canada Grain Act. The elimination of the requirement to inspect these weigh scales brings them in line with the inspection practice for all other device and establishment types. (October 18, 1994)	Weights and Measures Act
NATURAL RESOURCES
*1718	Enact the Energy Efficiency Regulations to establish national minimum energy efficiency performance standards for major household appliances, heating and cooling units or systems, water heaters, fluorescent lamp ballasts and electric motors, and require that an "EnerGuide" label disclosing their energy consumption be affixed to these goods. The new regulations will set minimum efficiency standards for products already regulated (or soon to be) in one or more provinces, and at levels that do not exceed those already in effect (or soon to be) in one or more provinces when the Regulations were drafted. The list of products required to display the EnerGuide label (clothes washers and dryers, dishwashers, electric ranges, freezers, and refrigerators or combination freezer/refrigerators) will be expanded to include room air conditioners. The regulations will take effect three months after prepublication in Part II of the Canada Gazette. (October 18, 1994)	Energy Efficiency Act

*1720	Uranium and Thorium Mining Regulations, amendments to require owners, operators or proponents of uranium mining facilities to provide satisfactory assurances to the Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) that adequate financial provision has been made for decommissioning their facilities in the interests of health, safety and the environment. In the absence of such assurances, the regulations authorize the AECB to issue orders or to amend licences in order to require persons with responsibilities for the decommissioning of uranium mining facilities to fulfill such obligations. These may include prohibitions against disbursements from funds or other financial security without the prior approval of the AECB. Failure to comply with decommissioning orders under these regulations could result in fines or imprisonment. The overall objective of the regulations is to ensure that the costs of decommissioning uranium mining facilities are borne by industry, not by government. (October 18, 1994)	Atomic Energy Control Act
	NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT
1736	Approve the leasing to Anvil Range Mining Corporation of some 1,877 hectares of land situated near Rose Creek and Faro Creek, in the Yukon Territory, for a mine site, mill buildings and disposal grounds for waste rock and mill tailings. (October 18, 1994)	Territorial Lands Act

COMMUNICATIONS
*1772	Canadian Telecommunications Common Carrier Ownership and Control Regulations respecting the eligibility of Canadian carriers to operate as telecommunications common carriers, defining the term Canadian for the purposes of eligibility requirements, and defining the term successor. A key provision of the regulations reduces from 80% to 66 2/3% the minimum Canadian ownership requirement for qualified corporations (companies that have a direct or indirect interest in a Canadian carrier). This is designed to provide Canadian telecommunications carriers (which must have a minimum 80% Canadian content) with more flexible access to capital and technology domestically and abroad. In response to submissions received after the proposed regulations were prepublished, a number of changes were made in the final regulations. These include: adopting an address-based approach for determining Canadian ownership and control (i.e., a Canadian address of a shareholder will suffice for determining eligibility to operate, except where the directors of the Canadian carrier have knowledge to the contrary); eliminating an earlier anomaly to ensure that grandfathered carriers are allowed the same opportunity as Canadian corporations to resume compliance after being found below the required levels of Canadian ownership; extending to carrier holding corporations (companies with direct shareholdings in a Canadian carrier) the authority to request affidavits or declarations and to sell, repurchase or redeem shares; revising the definition of "successor" to ensure that the status of grandfathered carriers is not affected by corporate reorganizations since July 22, 1987 or in the future; and providing a six-month transition period for the coming into force of these regulations during which time corporations that do not have actual knowledge that they are in compliance with the Canadian ownership requirements will be considered qualified corporations for that period. The regulations give the CRTC, on notice, the ability to exercise the powers of a Canadian carrier where the carrier has failed to meet the Canadian ownership requirements. *1870	Crow Benefit (Southern Rails Cooperative Ltd.) Order No. 2, to provide that the "Crow Benefit" payable to the Southern Rails Cooperative Ltd. in respect of the 1994-95 to 1996-97 crop years shall be reduced by an amount equal to the amount payable under an Agreement dated July 20, 1994, between the Minister of Transport and Southern Rails Cooperative Ltd. The agreement extends for another three years, effective August 1, 1994, subsidies to Southern Rails for grain transportation; due to government restraint, the subsidies will be funded from the Crow Benefit. Southern Rails is a short line railway, created as a cooperative venture by a group of grain producers and providing service to grain producers along the abandoned Avonlea South and Colony subdivisions in Saskatchewan; the railway will receive some $435,000 per year in Crow Benefit rail subsidy, reducing funds available to Western Grain Transportation Act freight rates by less than 2 cents a tonne. (November 15, 1994)	Western Grain Transportation Act
*1871	Pleasure Craft Sewage Pollution Prevention Regulations, amendment to prohibit the operator of a pleasure boat from depositing sewage into the following waters in Manitoba: the Red River (from the U.S. border to Lake Winnipeg), the Assiniboine River (from the Red River upstream to St. James Bridge in Winnipeg), and Shoal Lake. Some 500 vessels are expected to be affected by the new regulations, which will require holding tanks to be fitted (at costs ranging from $100 to $500) and will also require pump out services (estimated to cost $50 per year). Marina operators face additional costs of $5,000 to $50,000 for the installation of pump out facilities. Fines for contravention of the new regulations are a maximum of $250,000 on summary conviction and up to $1,000,000 on indictment. (November 15, 1994)	Canada Shipping Act
*1872	Abandonment of Branch Lines Prohibition Order No. 3, amendment whereby the protection from abandonment affecting a 36.5 mile section of Canadian Pacific Limited's Assiniboia Subdivision in Saskatchewan, between Weyburn and Pangman, will expire on November 15, 1994. Eliminating the abandonment protection for the portion of railway will save the federal government some $164,000 in branch line subsidies paid to CP Limited. (November 15, 1994)	National Transportation Act, 1987
*1873	Commercial Vehicle Drivers Hours of Service Regulations, 1994 respecting the hours of service of extra-provincial bus and truck drivers. The proposed new regulations, which replace the earlier version, incorporate a number of changes, including: exempting drivers of specially-designed vehicles operating to and from oil and natural gas well sites from the weekly cap provisions, provided that certain conditions are met; permitting a bus operator to apply for a special permit to allow bus drivers to commence a new driving assignment with less than 8 hours rest, but not less than 4 hours, twice in a seven consecutive day period; exempting two and three axle vehicles while the vehicle is transporting a primary product, including the return trip where products used in the principal operation of the business are transported; expanding the definition of on-time duty pertaining to the time spent by the driver resting in or otherwise occupying a commercial vehicle (except for the time resting in a sleeper berth); clarifying that time spent travelling as a passenger in a commercial vehicle is off-duty where the passenger takes 8 consecutive hours of off-duty time immediately on arrival at the destination; allowing a Director or inspector to place a driver out of service for 8 hours for failure to produce a daily logbook for inspection; and eliminating the seizure provisions and adding powers to request logbooks and supporting documentation on request. (November 15, 1994)	Motor Vehicle Transport Act, 1987
*1874	Motor Vehicle Safety Regulations (Schedule No. 261), amendments to provide for the use of four new types of glass-plastic glazings recognized for their injury-reduction characteristics. The regulations now also permit the use of the new glass-plastic glazing materials in areas other than windshields and the use of item 14 glass-plastic glazing for side and rear windows in convertibles. Use of the four new glass-plastic glazing materials provides manufacturers with the ability to use materials which are much lighter, more flexible and cheaper to produce than annealed or tempered glass. The changes come into effect immediately. (November 15, 1994)	Motor Vehicle Safety Act

JUSTICE
*1974	Prohibited Weapons Order No. 13 declaring certain weapons to be prohibited weapons and declaring that a person who possesses any such weapon prior to January 1, 1995 may retain it only if it is registered. This is one of a series of amendments that, taken together, delete 23 semiautomatic variants of assault rifles from the category of restricted weapons and declare them "prohibited weapons" pursuant to subsection 84(1) of the Criminal Code. Also affected are certain other firearms, assault pistols, combat shotguns, compact crossbows, and knives of the "push-dagger" design. The Orders affect that status of approximately 10,000 firearms, most presently registered as "restricted weapons". The Orders take effect on January 1, 1995. After a two-month compliance period, possession of a prohibited weapon designated under these orders will be an offence contrary to section 90 of the Criminal Code. (November 29, 1994)	Criminal Code
*1975	Amend the Prohibited Weapons Order No 3. This is one of a series of amendments that, taken together, delete 23 semiautomatic variants of assault rifles from the category of restricted weapons and declare them "prohibited weapons" pursuant to subsection 84(1) of the Criminal Code. Also affected are certain other firearms, assault pistols, combat shotguns, compact crossbows, and knives of the "push-dagger" design. PUBLIC WORKS
*1971	Amend the Municipal Grants Regulations, 1980 which for purposes of expediency will enable the Minister to make payments of grants-in-lieu of taxes on lands that were transferred from the Department of Public Works to the Queen's Quay West Land Corporation (formerly Harbourfront Corporation). The amendment adds Queen's Quay West Land Corporation to Schedule I of the Municipal Grants Act so grants-in-lieu may continue to be paid by Public Works Canada through statutory vote, although the lands have been transferred to the Queen's Quay West Land Corporation. The amendment will permit the settlement of some $1.6-million of tax arrears, from 1988 to 1994 inclusive, on lands owned by the Corporation that are part of the planned disposition of lands at Harbourfront. This would in turn remove one impediment to selling the lands to other parties in the light of tax assessments and accumulated realty taxes from regional government. (November 29, 1994)	Municipal Grants Act
ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE
1993	Promote of the following officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to the rank of Superintendent: Inspector Joseph Gerard Jacques Pelletier; Inspector Robert John Watson. (November 29, 1994)	Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act
